

The Repeat Prescriptions drawings deface the typed, medical, analytical diagnosis of an illness with a subjective response to an altered physical state. The nature of a repeat prescription habitually reminds us that all continues not to be well. As image and text combine, the traumatized surface curls up in response to receiving the image, embodying a skin like relic. These gentle zombie drawings render the prescription functionless; their delicate beauty exposes the body breaking down.